CONSUMER PSYCHOLOGY

is the study of individuals and organizations and how they select and use products and services. It is mainly concerned with psychology, motivations, and behavior.

It is very complex because each consumer has different mind and attitude towards purchase, consumption and disposal of product (Solomon, 2009). Understanding the theories and concepts of consumer behaviour helps to market the product or services successfully.

TIPS IN DESIGNING WEBSITES FOR KIDS

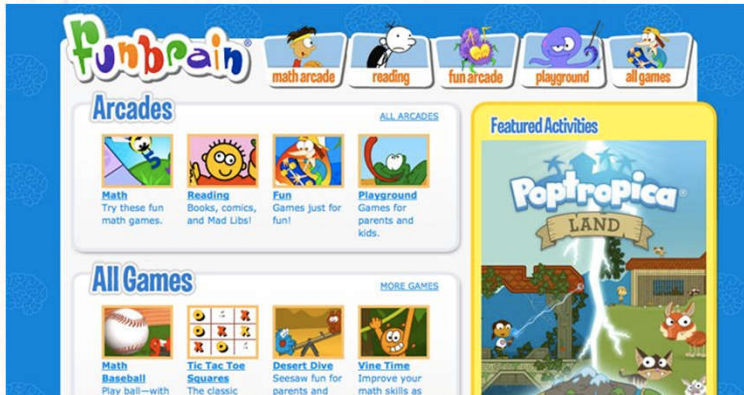

▪ Make it colorful

More is more when it comes to color so use lots of vivid and vibrant colors to grab attention. Primary and secondary colors – red, blue, yellow, green, purple and orange – are all happy colors, Make limited use of pastels and jewel tones.

▪ Typography

Basic sans serif lettering is the only option for children, while more options are available for teens. Think about size as well. Type should always be at least 14 points for children.

▪ Language

Age-appropriate language is key for understanding and interaction. Images and pictures should outweigh text. The younger the child, the less text you will use.

- Gamification:

Children like to play. Use this concept in design projects. Remember to include that prize or reward in the design. Be aware of ease of play when planning games. Actions should be large and easy to find. In digital projects, this includes super-simple navigation with oversized buttons.

TIPS IN DESIGNING WEBSITES FOR KIDS

- Interaction through animation and sound: Children won't play games or follow storylines with a lot of typing or searching, so everything needs to be positioned on the screen in an easy to tap or click location.

DESIGNING FOR TEENS

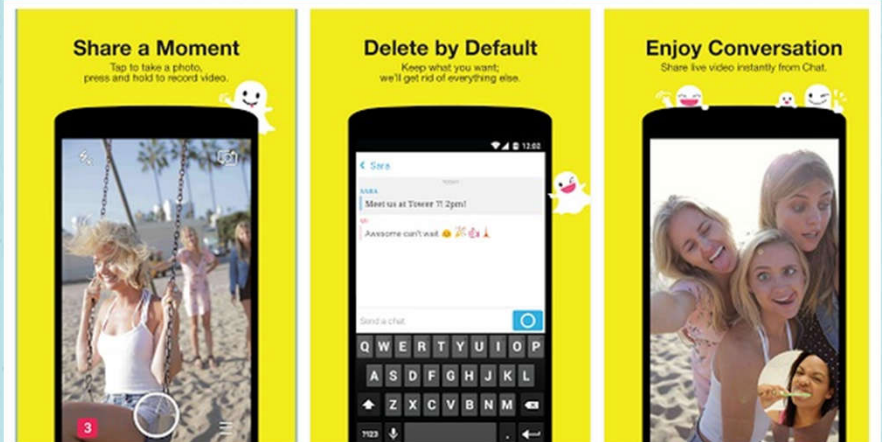

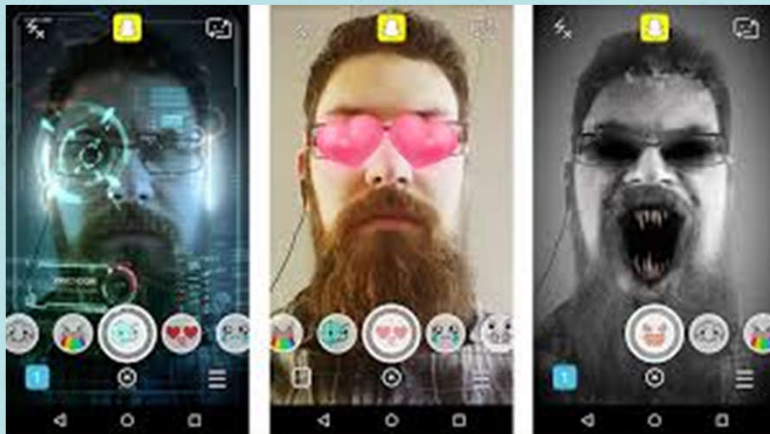

Teenager's UX

- Teens just want to be entertained online with graphics and multimedia
- Some use the internet to find information and knowledge
- Some use the internet for business
- Most of them prefer a mobile platform
- Teens want everything to be social
- Teens are tech-savvy

Fig. 3.3 Easy to create modified gloves (they have wooden popsicle sticks in the fingers) and goggles (with paint on them) that give the user restricted hand mobility and restricted vision respectively

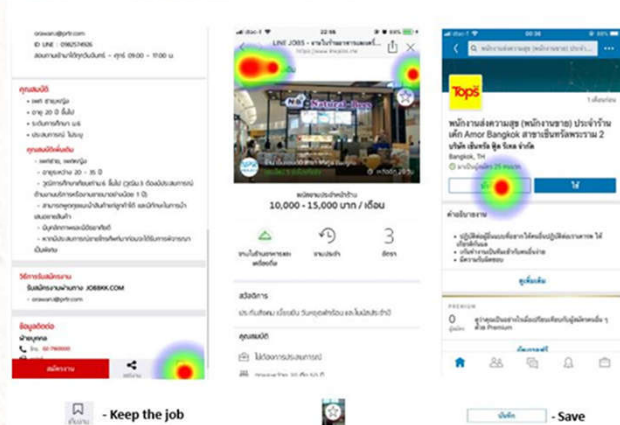

THINGS YOU NEED TO CONSIDER FOR SENIOR PEOPLE DESIGN

- A Button should not be less than 9.6 mm but people who age 70+ should be bigger
- Clicking areas should not be less than 11 mm
- Font 16px minimum
- Sans serifs are the best typefaces to use

THINGS YOU NEED TO CONSIDER FOR SENIOR PEOPLE DESIGN

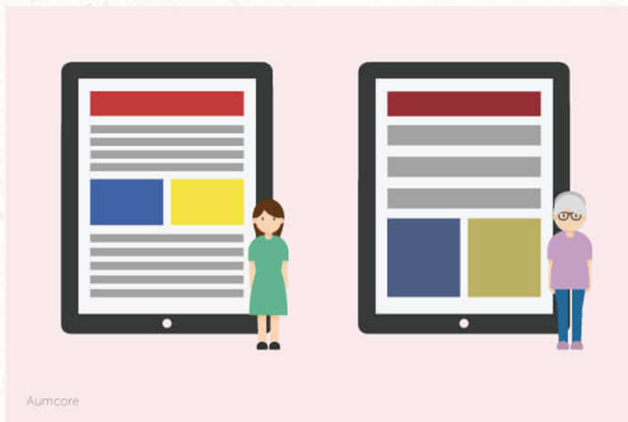

- No text overlaid on images or graphics
- Use clear icon and label with text
- Don't divide screens into multiple actions
- Avoid many options and put similar functions nearby
- Avoid using ambiguous word/language

TIME TO THINK ABOUT AGE RESPONSIVE DESIGN

- Age Responsive Design is balanced to fit to serve the users based on their specific demographics such as age and their personal interests

The image shows a close-up of a person's face, focusing on the nose and cheeks. A digital overlay is present, consisting of various icons and lines that represent skin analysis. The word 'PIMPLES' is visible in the upper right area of the overlay. Navigation arrows are also present.

OUR SAFETY COMMITMENTS

Safety standards beyond international cosmetics regulations.

The image contains four distinct panels, each illustrating a safety commitment. The first panel shows a close-up of a person's skin with a small area of irritation, accompanied by the text '100% PRODUCTS ALLERGY TESTED'. The second panel shows a single drop of liquid falling into a small jar, with the text 'JUST THE ESSENTIAL at the RIGHT ACTIVE DOSE'. The third panel shows a close-up of a person's face, focusing on the eye and cheek, with the text 'TESTED ON VERY SENSITIVE SKIN'. The fourth panel shows a bottle of product with a pump dispenser, with the text 'FORMULA PROTECTION over TIME'.
